

TWO HIGHWAY WORKERS HURT IN COLLISION

Two state Highway department employes were injured, neither seriously, when the truck on which they were riding on a sign painting assignment was struck by a car operated by the Rev. Charles S. Bream, Casper, Wyoming, about a mile west of Cashtown on the Lincoln highway at about 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Robert H. Cullison, 63, Cashtown, and Frank Green, 69, Gettysburg, were treated at the Warner hospital later in the morning and discharged. Cullison had a chest injury and Green suffered a cut over the right eye. The pair had been riding in the open body of the state truck and were jostled about when the accident occurred.

Harry C. Lower, 43, 50 South street, Gettysburg, was the driver of the state highway truck that was proceeding west at a slow speed when the Rev. Mr. Bream attempted to pass. As his car drew abreast of the truck two other cars appeared over the crest of a grade ahead. Officer W. W. Hoover, of the Gettysburg substation of the state motor police, learned when he investigated the crash.

The Rev. Mr. Bream is reported to have "cut in" in front of the highway truck, while Lower swerved the truck off the highway in an effort to avoid a crash. The minister's car struck the left front section of the truck, damaging its steering gear. Damage to the truck was estimated at about $25. The Rev. Mr. Bream's car was only scratched.

Officer Hoover placed the Rev. Mr. Bream under arrest and arraigned him before Justice of the Peace Charles F. Redding, Cumberland township, where he filed an information alleging an improper pass. The driver paid a fine of $10 and the costs.

Beer Truck Upsets

This morning about 9:30 o'clock a large loaded beer truck overturned and came to rest on its top as it descended Bream's hill, three miles west of here on the Fairfield road. The driver, a Hanoverian who said his name was Brown, stated that the front wheels of his truck had locked and that it had swerved sharply to the side of the highway. He escaped from the damaged cab by crawling through a broken window. He was unhurt. The accident was not reported to the state motor police.

8 LICENSED TO COLLECT REFUSE

The last day of grace before enforcement of Gettysburg's new garbage ordinance which begins on Saturday found eight present collectors licensed and ready for business under the new regulations.

Following the inspection of their equipment Monday morning by Dr. E. D. Hudson, health board president, and Erie R. Deardorff, borough health officer, these men have secured licenses as collectors: C. W. Epley, John Waddles, who will operate two trucks; Charles Waddles, David Thomas, Unger Snyder, George Woodward, Paul Plank and Alvin Cullison.

The eight licensees have paid Burgess C. A. Heiges a total of $151.50 for their permits. The license fee is based upon the number of customers served, with $15 set as the minimum charge. Most of the collectors paid the minimum, while the largest sum charged any collector was $31.50.

At the last meeting of the Gettysburg board of health, several members of the board pointed out that while collectors are complying with the new regulations, private citizens, restaurant owners and other patrons of the collectors have a responsibility under the ordinance to provide acceptable containers for the garbage.

Householders who fail to provide the proper type of containers for the garbage or fail to place the containers at a place which is accessible to the collectors are liable to the same penalty of a maximum fine of $10, as are collectors who violate the ordinance.

Acceptable containers must be non-absorbent material, water-tight and fly-tight. They must be provided with handles and tight-fitting covers that are also of non-absorbent material.

BARD AGAIN IS DENIED RIGHT TO LEAD JURY PROBE

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme court today barred Attorney General Guy K. Bard for the second time from conducting a grand jury investigation of campaign charges against Governor George H. Earle and 13 others and returned to the Dauphin county court the question of who shall direct the inquiry.

The high court wrote one brief word—"refused"—across the attorney general's petition for re-argument of his appeal from a lower court decision prohibiting him from superseding Dauphin county District Attorney Carl B. Shelley as director of the grand jury inquiry.

The Supreme court originally upheld the lower court in a decision handed down in Pittsburgh October 3. It was based on the grounds that the attorney general is an appointee of Earle, one of those accused of vote coercion, blackmail and conspiracy.

Hearing Next Week Judge Paul N. Schaeffer, of Berks county, named by the high court months ago to preside in Dauphin county over any grand jury inquiry, said he would communicate immediately with Bard and Shelley to determine the next step.

Judge Schaeffer, talking to Bard today by telephone, gave the attorney general until Monday noon to file reasons why Shelley should be disqualified from prosecuting the case.

"Not before next Wednesday will a hearing be held," the Berks jurist said. "Shelley will have to determine whether he will file an answer to Bard's petition, or whether he will ask for argument in open court."

He added, however, that no definite action could be taken until the record of the case is returned to him from the Supreme court. The prothonotary of the high court in Harrisburg said he had been instructed to turn over the record today to the clerk of Dauphin county court.

Today's Supreme court action, in which no opinion was filed, came as (Continued on Second Page)

CRAVEN FUNERAL IS HELD TODAY

Private Charles H. "Pat" Craven, who received fatal injuries while performing his duty on a midnight patrol on the Lincoln highway near here last Saturday night, was buried at Williamsport this afternoon.

Services were conducted at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. S. Rothfuss, foster-parents of the policeman, and interment was made in a Williamsport cemetery.

Two of the pallbearers were Corporal J. G. Warren and Officer Glen F. Henry, of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police, fellow officers with Private Craven at the Gettysburg substation. On Thursday evening Officers W. W. Hoover and A. Lashinsky, Gettysburg, went to Williamsport to view the body.

Officer Craven came here on September 1 from Shamokin with a record of eight years of service as a police officer in Pennsylvania. With Private Joseph M. Williams, Officer Craven went on a midnight patrol of the Lincoln highway east of here. Both men and three cars were struck by the machine operated by Christian Mohr, Hanover. Williams died a few minutes after the accident.

Mohr remained a prisoner in the county jail today unable to secure the $5,000 bail required for his release.

Arrangements for the joint inquest into the double tragedy may be made Saturday by Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner.

HELD IN $1,000 BAIL FOR THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE

Taken before Justice of the Peace Howard G. Blocher in Littlestown this morning for the second time in 24 hours for a hearing, Claude Lingle, 35, who gave his address as Biglerville R. D. but said he was formerly from Hickory, North Carolina, signed a plea of guilty to a charge of stealing the automobile of Guy Kane, Gettysburg, R. 3, in Gettysburg on Thursday morning.

Officer H. S. Roberts, Littlestown, who arrested Lingle on Thursday, said today that Lingle admitted he had stolen Kane's car from its parking place at the rear of the Milton Plank building, Baltimore street, and driven it to Littlestown, striking a telephone pole enroute.

Lingle said he took the car about 8:30 o'clock while Kane was working in the Plank building. The keys were in the car, he said.

The Littlestown policeman nabbed Lingle on South Queen street on a reckless driving count after he is reported to have forced several drivers off the road. Taken before the Littlestown justice at that time, he drew a 10-day jail sentence in default of payment of a fine.

The officer's further investigation of the case brought the larceny charge and a third information accusing Lingle of driving a car without an operator's license. Lingle admitted all three charges.

This morning Justice Blocher sentenced Lingle to an additional five days in jail for driving without a license and set at $1,000 his bail on the larceny count. Lingle was returned to jail.

Damage to Kane's car has been estimated at about $60.

Driver in Crash Faces Reckless Driving Count

A reckless driving charge has been filed before Justice of the Peace Ray J. Sponseller, Hamilton township, against Alfred F. Thomas, East Berlin R. 2, operator of a truck which figured in a collision with a concrete culvert a mile north of Cross Keys on the Carlisle-Hanover highway last Thursday evening. Two companions of Thomas were injured.

At the time of the accident Thomas told Officer Russell J. Fischer, of the Gettysburg substation who investigated, that he had been blinded by the lights of another car.

Spence levied on the growing and stored crops on the farm, livestock, machinery and farming equipment and posted notices of a sheriff's sale which is to be held on October 21 at the Wilkin farm about three miles from here along the Taneytown road.

ADAMS GROWERS PROTEST ARREST OF APPLE BUYER; HAD NO LICENSE

Blaming "jealous" local buyers for informing upon Louis Feinstein, Chicago, Illinois, one of the largest buyers of apples doing business in this county, and causing his arrest, Adams county fruit growers rallied to Feinstein's defense at a special meeting in Biglerville Thursday evening and more than a score promised to be on hand next Monday morning when Feinstein's continued hearing on a charge of purchasing apples without a license and bond will be resumed before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer.

Growers confirmed Feinstein's claim at the meeting that he paid much higher prices for apples—in some cases double—than large county buyers are offering. He further claimed and his statements were verified by more than a dozen growers that he pays cash for the fruit and often pays in advance.

Feinstein was arrested last Friday on an information laid by an official of the state bureau of markets who accused him of violation of a state law which became operative January 1, requiring that dealers in all farm products excepting livestock, be licensed and required to post a bond of $3,000 or more. Buyers making cash purchases are exempted under the act and growers said Thursday evening that the whole Feinstein case revolves about the definition of a cash transaction in the fruit business.

Say Buyers Fled County Aroused fruitmen at the meeting declared they know of only two dealers in the county who have complied with the law Feinstein was arrested for breaking. They asked for the names of those who had informed on Feinstein.

Instances were reported to the meeting of large out-of-state buyers who had come here, but left hurriedly after Feinstein's arrest to avoid a similar lot for themselves. Other growers said they knew some buyers were afraid to come here lest they be arrested and brought to face with a maximum fine of $500 or a jail sentence for an offense similar to that alleged against Feinstein.

With canning houses in the county intending to handle fewer apples than last year and with small apple crops in many sections of the country, Adams county fruitmen are particularly anxious to contact outside buyers. President Harry M. Weigle said as he scored the "sudden enforcement of the law, which has been ignored for 10 months, at the psychological moment when buyers are most important to fruitmen."

Sees Lower Apple Prices

One fruitman suggested the association pay Feinstein's license fee of $10, but Feinstein, who was present at the meeting, pointed out that there would be an additional $250 or $300 required to secure the large bond he says state men indicated would be required of him. "If I am forced to get a license and put up a bond, I'll leave the state," Feinstein said, and added that even if he would stay here he would have to buy apples at a lower price to make up the cost of his license and bond so that the orchardists would be paying the bill in the end.

President Weigle held that the law, although its apparent purpose of protecting the agriculturist from unscrupulous dealers was good, works a hardship on the fruitman by driving out the small buyers who cannot afford the license and bond for small purchases and frightening away the big buyers.

He illustrated how impractical it would be to attempt to force a buyer to pay for each truckload of apples as it is delivered to the packing house or car, particularly when the fruit is being bought on inspection or by the hundred weight and the transaction is not complete until some time after actual delivery. One grower suggested "parking meters" so that buyers could drop in payments for each truckload if that is required.

Feinstein, who addressed the growers several times during the meeting, declared: "The men who (Continued on Page Two)"

HUNGARY PUTS CZECH DISPUTE UP TO 4 POWERS

Budapest, Oct. 14 (AP).—Diplomatic circles reported today that Hungary had postponed scheduled mobilization of her army at the request of "great foreign powers," especially Germany, "in the interest of European peace."

Reliable source said a Hungarian delegation left by airplane at noon (6 a. m., E. S. T.) for Berlin at Adolf Hitler's invitation to discuss minimum territorial demands Hungary might make on Czechoslovakia.

The mobilization was said to have been scheduled for 11 a. m. today.

Budapest, Oct. 14 (AP).—The Hungarian cabinet announced today it had decided to take "further measures for the military security of the country" and said heavily-armed Czechoslovakia had attempted to exert pressure on Hungary in the dissolved Komarom conference.

The announcement came after an all-night cabinet session in which ministers sought means to obtain from Czechoslovakia Hungarian-populated territory which Hungary is demanding.

Shortly after the announcement was issued, 500 students of the University of Budapest staged a demonstration in Liberty square demanding arms to fight Czechoslovakia.

The demonstrators chanted: "Horthy-Duce." There was no coupling of the name of Adolf Hitler with Hungary's regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy, as there had been at previous gatherings.

4 Powers Informed

The cabinet's communique asserted that Czechoslovakia had mobilized men up to 60 years of age. Hungarian political circles took the view that Hungary could not tolerate wide military disparity between the two countries.

Britain, France, Germany and Italy have been informed of the Czechoslovak-Hungarian territorial negotiations at Komarom, the cabinet announcement said. Besides these four powers, to whom the government submitted its territorial claims for a solution, the cabinet also notified Poland.

With this done, the communique said, Hungary resumed the right to take adequate measures for defense.

The official view was that the tense situation between Czechoslovakia and Hungary was placed squarely on the four powers, whose heads resolved the German claim to Sudetenland at Munich September 29.

Government circles intimated the decision to break off conversations at Komarom was made when certain guarantees were received from at least one of the four powers that Hungarian demands would fare best under four-power discussion.

Hungarian circles, however, exhibited decided disappointment upon reports Chancellor Hitler likely would show almost equal sympathy with this government and that of Slovakia, newly-created autonomous region of Czechoslovakia.

Hitler Wants Settlement

Hitler, these circles said, favored quick settlement of the dispute, with Hungary to get areas in which Hungarians were dominant. But, they added, he opposed cession to Hungary of the economically important district, Bratislava.

The German chancellor has said also to oppose giving to Hungary sufficient Ruthenian territory to establish a common Hungary-Poland border.

Meanwhile, Hungarian military activity continued with an estimated 12,000 soldiers at border points, opposite Czechoslovak forces. Diplomatic quarters said the army would be strengthened considerably the next few days. Mobilization is being considered. Intervention by the Munich powers, however, Premier Bela Imred's press chief stressed Thursday, would delay such action.

SINO-JAP WAR IS 464 DAYS OLD

Shanghai, Oct. 14 (AP).—Heavy losses were admitted by both sides today as the 464-day old undeclared Chinese-Japanese war swept over 560,000 square miles in 11 Chinese provinces.

Invaders from the sea smashed toward the Canton-Kowloon railroad in south China with the aim of severing vital communications systems which 15 months of frequent bombings have failed to cut.

More than 500 miles to the north, other Japanese columns, warships and bombing planes redoubled efforts to pierce the ring of defenses around Hankow, the provisional capital.

Bitter fighting raged in the Sinyang sector, on the Peiping-Hankow railroad 100 miles north of Hankow, where the defenders said they had recaptured Luilin and thereby blocked a projected Japanese drive down the railroad to Hankow.

100-FT. FALL OF CRANE KILLS 2

Pittsburgh, Oct. 14 (AP).—Two men were killed and nearly a score of others were rescued when a traveling crane toppled from the new Highland park bridge today and plunged 100 feet into the Allegheny river.

Workmen on a barge underneath the crane leaped into the water seconds before the 75-ton crane struck the barge with a thunderous crash.

The dead: Daniel W. Wade, 50, crane engineer, of nearby Glassmere, and Jack Collins, 52, bridge-man of Pittsburgh.

Wade's body was recovered by the master of United States lock No. 2, nearby. Collins' body was believed buried under the mass of wreckage. His split helmet was found on the barge.

Police Lieut. Thomas Morrison said all the other men were accounted for.

Joe Buccell, a truck driver on a nearby road job, said the derrick fell into the river after a work boat was towed from its moorings.

Buccell added:

"I had my truck under the shovel and was waiting for them to free it. In the river under the bridge there was a boat holding a small steam crane. This crane lifted steel to the big derrick on the bridge.

"The boat also held beams which helped to support the bridge. When the boat broke from its moorings, these supports spread, and the derrick went through into the river.

Buccell said he thought the derrick struck the boat and "there was a tangle of steel—the boat was sticking up in the air as if one end was sunk. The top of the derrick was sticking out of the water."

EX-SERGEANT IN ARMY PLEADS GUILTY AS SPY

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—Guenther Gustav Rumrich, former United States army sergeant, unexpectedly pleaded guilty to espionage charges in federal court today as he was about to go on trial with three other persons, accused of being spies.

Rumrich, alleged by the government to have stolen a military aviation code, was a native of Chicago and the son of German parents. He deserted from the army in 1935.

He entered his plea as Judge John C. Knox was about to order a jury empaneled for the first important espionage trial in the United States since the World War Judge Knox deferred sentence until the end of the trial.

Rumrich's co-defendants, who watched him change his plea in silence, are Johanna Hofmann, 26-year-old former hairdresser on the North German Lloyd liner Europa, accused of having acted as a messenger for the so-called spy ring; Otto Herman Voss, 36, a naturalized German formerly employed at the Seversky airplane plant at Farmingdale, Long Island, where American army planes are under construction, and Eric Glaser, 28, another naturalized German who was attached to the United States army as a private at the Mitchell field aviation field.

Voss is accused of stealing plans for a high-speed pursuit plane; Glaser of stealing aviation secrets.

If convicted they face a maximum penalty of 20 years imprisonment each.

Model for British War Poster Turns Out To Be German

London (AP).—The Women's Air Raid Precautions Organization found itself in a pickle the other day.

The job of the Women's Voluntary Services for A.R.P., as it is officially known, is to recruit women workers for the various services which will function during air raids.

To spur recruiting it flooded the country with a prize-winning poster bearing a girl's head under the admonition "ARP Looks To You."

Horrible Possibility

This was the typical English girl. This was the girl for whom Tommy Atkins would shoulder a machine gun.

The poster had been selected after a nationwide campaign with a tremendous build-up.

Suddenly—as Britain drew closer to war with Germany than at any other time since 1914—there came the awful whisper that perhaps the girl wasn't British. Perhaps she was GERMAN!

Immediately the posters were called in and a frantic search begun for a substitute girl about whose nationality there would be no doubt.

Officials culled through 2,000 photographs before they found what they wanted. They didn't disclose the other girl's name. But they did the new one's.

Basically British

They outlined her history from A to Z. They were making no mistake this time. They wanted the world to know that Miss Barbara Kershaw came from Yorkshire, England (the home county, incidentally of Anthony Eden and Lord Halifax) and that she is "typically British with hair that is not too dark and not too light, blue eyes, and an open, direct expression."

Miss Kershaw is a 25-year-old mannequin now working in a London fashion house. Some old fuss budgets didn't think that makeup and brightly tinted fingernails went with the typical British girl. But officials replied that her face is basically very British—"whatever she may do to it superficially."

"She is essentially a sensible type of girl," they went on. "Also, she is not too provocative."

BUDGET DEPENDS ON DEFENSE COST

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP).—President Roosevelt said today he was making an entirely new study of the nation's national defense needs and that until it was completed he could not estimate next year's budget.

The President told a press conference he could not comment on the new budget because new technical developments in national defense measures required a complete restudy of defensive requirements.

He said the reason for the re-assessment of these needs began to take shape about a year ago because of information coming in connection with world events. He said the question was forced to a head in the past month. In response to a question he said the new information was of a technical rather than a political nature.

Asked about Thursday's statement by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the world war industries board, that America was unprepared for war because of lack of sufficient first class equipment, the President said he had not read the statement. He added, however, a good many people were checking the situation in connection with new elements that have come into the defense picture in the last three or four years.

One of the things being studied, he said, was that of mass production of war equipment, including airplanes, power and other items. He said the production question was something new and intimated one of the phases to be studied was standardization of plane production, which some countries already have adopted.

The President preferred not to talk about detailed items at this time regarding defense needs, saying he wanted to study the whole picture so as to give the country a complete idea at the proper time.

Adams Growers Protest Arrest Of Apple Buyer

reported me haven't got a license." He added that since his arrest an apple buying concern in Biglerville has secured a license with the smallest possible bond.

May Make Test Case

The buyer declared he holds a federal license which he has been informed by authorities exempts him from the need for a state license while he is engaged in interstate commerce.

Several growers urged clarification of the state license law and appeared disposed to make a test case out of Feinstein's arrest and carry it to court for decision.

Feinstein was given a hearing last Monday afternoon before Justice Shearer when only the testimony of the prosecutor, Harry Phander, of the state bureau of markets, was given. The continuance was granted to allow time to gather commonwealth witnesses.

About 100 growers attended the meeting Wednesday in the Biglerville auditorium.

It's time to clean the fur collar on your coat. Heat cornmeal in a shallow pan and, with the fingers, rub the meal well into the fur. After two days, shake out or brush lightly with a soft brush. If the fur is very soiled, repeat. This is very effective on the white fur so often used on evening wraps.

3 Claim Gold Coins Unearthed in Cellar

Bloomsburg, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP).—Three claimants battled in Columbia county court today for nearly $3,000 in gold coins unearthed last winter in a cellar on the estate of a man described by witnesses as having hoarded the coins.

John Johnson, who uncovered the coins, maintains that "finders are keepers." He is defendant in the suit, along with George Hill, who says he helped Johnson dig up the fortune.

F. Harold Kline seeks possession of the money as part of the estate of his father, Frank P. Kline, who died 48 years ago. A 73-year-old witness, William W. Barratt, Jr., testified Thursday he saw the gold in the elder Kline's possession a week before he died.

The fortune—$2,980 in $20 gold pieces—was dumped on a table in the courtroom Thursday during the trial. All but six of the pieces were placed in custody of a bank when the litigation began several months ago. Witnesses produced four of the other pieces, and two were missing.

Stock Report

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—Profit taking pounded stock market industrials down fractions to a point or so today, but wide buying in utilities tended to shorten declines elsewhere.

The market had enjoyed an advance of more than two weeks with only two slight interruptions.

The ticker tape was behind at the opening. It was late again at the start of the second hour after a quiet interval. Prices were well jumbled near mid-day.

IRISH APPEAL TO HITLER FOR HELP

Belfast, Oct. 14 (AP).—A group of Ulster Irish appealed to Chancellor Hitler today to aid their campaign for union of North Ireland with Ireland (Eire, the former Irish Free State).

After an Armagh county mass meeting they sent this message: "We call upon you to use all endeavors to persuade Premier Chamberlain to bring about freedom for the minority in northern Ireland and abolition of partition in our beloved country."

Over 46 per cent of all the crop-land of the Northwest was brought under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's 1937 program.

no surprise to court attaches. They said the high tribunal had seldom in its long history allowed a re-argument on any case it had previously decided.

The next step, Judge Schaeffer said, would be to determine whether Shelley himself shall be superseded by another attorney.

Schaeffer to Decide

At the same time that the Supreme court ruled in Pittsburgh that Bard, personally could not replace Shelley, it noted that Governor Earle had charged that Shelley, a republican, was actuated by political motives.

The Supreme court asked Judge Schaeffer to determine Shelley's eligibility to direct the investigation. Schaeffer said this would involve a special hearing.

"All that will have to be settled before the grand jury is summoned," Schaeffer said.

Bard, in taking exception to the Supreme court's original decision in barring him from superseding Shelley, declared the court had infringed "upon the rights and powers of the attorney general."

The ruling, Bard asserted, tended "to dislocate and disturb the powers of the executive branch of the government" and tended to set up a "judicial overlordship."

Shelley declined to comment on the high court's decision.

NAZI-CATHOLIC BREACH WIDENS

Vienna, Oct. 14 (AP).—Nazi leaders said today the breach between the state and the Catholic church was wider than ever, after Austrian Nazi commissioner Joseph Buerckel's anti-clerical speech, and predicted many Nazis would withdraw from the church.

Buerckel's listeners in Heroes' square Thursday night cried "we'll leave the church" after he announced:

"If they pray against us in church, then I demand of every individual national socialist that he have nothing more to do with such a church."

Buerckel, commissioned by Chancellor Hitler to handle the details of integrating Austria into the reich, revealed that negotiations for a working agreement with the church had been broken off.

This was the first time the public had been told such negotiations had been in progress.

He charged the Catholic leaders delayed the negotiations because they "speculated" on a war over Czechoslovakia which would give them a "new chance."

He blamed Czechoslovak Jews for demonstrations in behalf of Theodore Cardinal Innitzer last Friday. The demonstration fired Nazi resentment, and in fighting on Saturday the cardinal was injured by a stone. Windows of his palace were broken.

"I have decided," Buerckel said, that "all Czechoslovak Jews and those Czechs who compromised must leave Vienna as soon as possible."

For two hours crowds hooted and yelled before the cardinal's palace after Buerckel's speech last night. They were dispersed before midnight.

PITT, ALABAMA AND CORNELL ARE FAVORED TO WIN

By HERBERT W. BARKER

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—Operating from short punt formation, ready to run, pass or kick (especially run), this football corner takes a look at the week's football slate, heaves a sigh of wistful resignation and emerges with the following guesses:

Alabama—Tennessee: The game of games in the southeastern conference this week. It might even settle the championship although that's taking an extremely far-sighted bird's-eye view of the situation. (Note: Barker, the Associated Press forecaster, forgot to name his choice for this game so the Gettysburg Times' "handicapper" substitutes and gives Alabama the nod.)

Wisconsin—Pitt: Harry Stuhldreher must have been feeding his Wisconsin badgers nothing but raw meat, but the conviction grows that this Pitt outfit has everything a great team needs. Pitt.

California—U.C.L.A.: That was a minor miracle U.C.L.A. engineered last week against Washington but California power would seem to be the decisive factor here, California.

Texas A. and M.—Texas Christian: A Santa Clara team that ran up 22 points on Stanford could score only seven on the Aggies. Nevertheless Christian has been knocking its rival around like so many ten-pins and gets the nod here.

Minnesota—Michigan: Other guys can analyze this one if they want to. This corner prefers to call out the coin and it reads . . . Minnesota.

Syracuse—Cornell: Two undefeated eastern powers collide here and only a grade-A soothsayer could predict the outcome with any degree of confidence. If this ballot goes to Cornell it's because the Ithacans have faced more rugged opposition than the Orange.

Fordham—Purdue: The same sort of reasoning ought to make Purdue the selection in this one but this guesser strings along with a hunch. Fordham.

Notre Dame—Illinois: A week-kneed ballot for Notre Dame.

Northwestern—Ohio State: The grapevine says Northwestern is one of the really strong teams in the big ten but this corner, more stubborn even than usual, takes Ohio state.

Duke—Georgia Tech: This series has developed some of football's most dramatic games. Out of the hat, Duke.

Carnegie Tech—Holy Cross: Possible upset here, but take Holy Cross.

Columbia—Colgate: The Columbia bias, with their limited manpower, can't go on indefinitely, but they rate the call.

Dartmouth—Brown: This would appear to be the spot where the Brown bear gets trapped. Dartmouth.

Sees Win for Penn

Harvard—Army: And still no hope for Harvard.

New York University—North Carolina: One of the toughest of them all to figure. North Carolina, narrowly.

Princeton—Penn: Princeton looks too green to cope with Penn.

West Virginia—Michigan State: West Virginia's been a big disappointment and the ballot goes to Michigan State.

Yale—Navy: Looks like third straight beating for Yale.

Tulane—Rice: Tulane's coming strong; Rice hasn't even started. Maybe the Texans will this week. Rice, reserving right to appeal.

North Carolina State—Wake Forest: Very close, Wake Forest.

Stanford—Oregon: The Webfoots may not like it farther south but must be picked on the records. Oregon.

Washington—Oregon State: Washington.

Southern California—Washington State: Just a train-ride for State. Southern California.

Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Duquesne over West Virginia; Wesleyan; Bucknell over Temple; Kansas State over Marquette; Auburn over Mississippi State; Penn State over Lehigh; Lafayette over Washington and Jefferson; Maryland over Western Maryland, and Villanova over Centre.

LOOKING AROUND

THE week-end of football games offers one of the most difficult lists of the season for forecasting. Throughout the entire country scores of games will be played in which either team is given a good chance for victory. Many will be protecting perfect records while others will be meeting traditional rivals. We wouldn't be surprised if you differed in nearly all of the following selections (the team listed first is our choice):

Temple—Bucknell.
Villanova—Centre.
Dartmouth—Brown.
Navy—Yale.
Boston U.—Upsala.
Army—Harvard.
North Carolina—N. Y. U.
Penn—Princeton.
Cornell—Syracuse.
Fordham—Purdue.
Gettysburg—Drexel.
Alabama—Tennessee.
Muhlenberg—F. and M.
Holy Cross—Carnegie Tech.
Duke—Georgia Tech.
Auburn—Mississippi State.
Vanderbilt—Mississippi.
Louisiana State—Loyola.
Kentucky—W. and L.
Georgia—Mercer.
Pitt—Wisconsin.
Notre Dame—Illinois.
Minnesota—Michigan.
Iowa—Chicago.
Indiana—Nebraska.
Oregon—Stanford.
U. S. C.—Washington State.
T. C. U.—Texas A. and M.
Taylor—Centenary.
Santa Clara—Arizona.

Two more games have been added to the Gettysburg high school basketball schedule for the coming season. Washington Township will be met here on Tuesday, December 13. Announcement of the other game will be made in the near future.

THE Mt. St. Mary's football team will play its first home game of the season Saturday afternoon when Davis Elkins invades Emmitsburg. Al Thomas, stellar guard and bulwark of the Mountaineer line for three seasons, may be kept out of action due to injuries. Thomas formerly played at Gettysburg academy. Coach Joe McCormick has been disappointed with the showing of his veterans and threatens to shelve them if they fail to give better performances.

TIME FOR REST CURE

Media, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—Severino Conte, 47, was sentenced Thursday to four and one-half to nine years imprisonment after Mrs. Pamia Ferroni testified that back in 1928, he told her to "put seven $100 bills in an envelope, place it beneath your daughter's pillow and her rheumatism will be cured." The bills disappeared but the rheumatism stayed on, Mrs. Ferroni said.

WORK DELAYED

Sellersville, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—Two steeplejacks, clinging to an 108-foot church tower, fought it out with a detested swarm of wasps. After trying numerous tactics, the steeplejacks won—by spraying the tower with gasoline. Without the complications the job would have taken five days. The actual time: two weeks.

Chambersburg Faces Maroons In Important League Contest

Two rugged undefeated football teams will clash on the Kurtz athletic field Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Chambersburg high school's Trojans meet the Gettysburg high Maroons in their annual Southern Pennsylvania conference game.

Saturday's tilt has all the earmarks of being one of the hardest fought of the season. Each team is seeking to protect a perfect record and at the same time to establish itself as a real contender for the league championship.

Coach "Snapper" Rines has developed another Trojan outfit that packs plenty of power. In two games the team has scored 97 points although the opposition was admittedly weak. Halting the slashing Chambersburg off-tackle and line thrusts will be the big problem for the Maroon outfit.

Gettysburg came out of the Shippenburg tilt in good physical condition and all of its man-power will be available. The same lineup which started against Shippenburg is listed to oppose the invaders.

During the last week several new plays were given the locals and will be used against Chambersburg. Both teams are preparing to "shoot the works" and a thrilling afternoon is promised.

Preparations are being made to handle a large crowd. Chambersburg's band will accompany the team and hundreds of students and fans will make the trip.

The starting lineup for Gettysburg follows: Beard, le; Linn, rt; Oyler, lg; Fortenbaugh, c; Timbers, rg; Tawney, rt; Fissel, re; Wright, qb; Hartman, lb; Meyers, rh, and Tate, fb.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Oct. (AP)—Some queer things are happening out there in that Minnesota powerhouse. . . . Bernie Bierman has a 217-pound fullback (Larry Buhler) playing right half and running the ends. . . . Wilbur Moore, born and bred a right-half, is playing left and tearing the tackles apart for amazing yardage. . . . Bierman has a converted fullback—George Faust—playing quarter, and, oh yes, just for a change, Fullback Marty Christian is playing fullback. . . . There is a hard-boiled hockey defense man (Mariucci) with a lot of body checking talent playing one end, and a basketball hot-shot guard (Butch Nash) playing the other. . . . Guards play tackle and tackles play guard, and I am only sorry to report that Centers Dan Elmer and John Kilbiski are not playing quarter. . . . But give Bierman a chance—they may be there before the season is over. . . .

Most of you didn't know it, but Ernie Lombardi of the Reds won the National league batting championship with a pair of sprained and tightly taped wrists during the last three weeks of the season. . . . They were so swollen the club doctor told him to quit and go home. . . . But old Ernie stuck and won the title with a mark of 342. . . . There was no snap to his swing the last three weeks—he just pushed his bat out in front of him and every time he connected it hurt like the very devil. . . . So viva Lombardi! . . . (Or whatever you holler in Italian). . . .

The Baseball gossips have Burleigh Grimes catching on at Rochester and Jimmy Wilson at Buffalo. . . . Just to show you how Bill McKechnie feels about his second base problem, he has offered Linus Frey, Wally Berger and a promising kid catcher, Will Hershberger, to Boston for the aging Tony Cuccinello. . . . The Messrs. Bill Terry and Larry MacPhail didn't almost square off against each other during the world series, did they? . . . All because Brooklyn drafted a pitcher (Russ Evans) Terry had bought for Jersey City? . . .

Most baseball men think Ray Schaak already has signed to manage the St. Louis Browns. . . . Baseball men are beginning to wonder what is going to happen to Frankie Frisch? Today's space has been used up so our Saturday four, three and two star football specials will appear in tomorrow's column. . . . Please tune in.

Fairfield Deadlocks With East Berlin

Fairfield and East Berlin high schools battled to a 2-2 tie in an Adams county soccer league game played at East Berlin Thursday afternoon.

East Berlin tallied a goal in the third period. Fairfield knotted the score with a tally early in the last period. Again East Berlin scored to take the lead but Fairfield created a tie by counting with but two minutes of play remaining. McGlaughlin and Deardorff scored for Fairfield.

Littlestown will play at Fairfield next Tuesday while Quincy plays at Fairfield on Friday.

FEARS PLAYERS TOO CONFIDENT; DREXEL STRONG

Drexel, defending champion of the Eastern Pennsylvania intercollegiate football conference, will be host to the Gettysburg college football team in the opening league game of the new season Saturday afternoon at Philadelphia. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

Coach Henry T. Bream is far from optimistic about Saturday's tilt, fearing his players have become over-confident following their crushing victory over Albright.

It is a well-known fact that Coach Walter Halas is gunning for the Bullets and has been priming his forces for this game since the start of the season.

Injured Return

Two of Coach Bream's injured players have returned to duty and will be ready for action. "Hank" Burman, end, and Al Hill, tackle, who missed the Albright tilt, are again in uniform and will face the Dragons. Bender and Schard are definitely out of the Drexel tilt.

The success of the Bullet team on Saturday will again be largely dependent on the charge of the line-men. Coach Bream stated this morning that his line would have to be even faster in its charge than it was last week. Drexel employs a strong spread offense from which its passes are thrown and only by rushing the passers can that type offense be effectively halted.

Little or no change is expected in the locals' starting lineup. Flinchbaugh has been discharged from the infirmary and should be ready for action. Freeze will replace him if he is not in form. The showing of Baily may earn him a starting post at guard. Otherwise, the team will be composed of Yovissin, Chester, Ashburn, Henry, Deardorff, O'Neill or Utz on the line with Yunaska, Hamilton, Fulmer and P. Bender performing in the backfield.

The squad was scheduled to leave by bus between 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon. Dinner will be eaten at Lancaster this evening and from there the squad will move on to the Green Hill Farms just outside of Philadelphia where the night will be spent.

NIGHT COUGHING CAN OFTEN BE PREVENTED

If your child often coughs at night because of even a slight cold—do this at bedtime: Thoroughly massage Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action tends to keep the air-passages clear, helping to maintain normal breathing through the nose, and so reducing mouth-breathing (the frequent cause of night coughs). Try it tonight—learn for yourself another reason why VapoRub is a family standby in more homes than all other medications of its kind put together.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Church Scene of Pretty Wedding:
A beautiful wedding was solemnized on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Francis Xavier church, when Miss Regina Breighner, of Gettysburg, became the bride of Frank J.
McLaughlin, of Philadelphia. The nuptial mass was performed by the Rev. Mark E. Stock, pastor of the church.

The bride was given in marriage
by her brother, C. Joseph Breighner.
She wore a gown of white satin crepe, with a court train. Miss Ruth Breighner, maid of honor, wore a gown of pale yellow georgette.

Mr. McLaughlin had for his best man, Daniel Redmond, of Berwin.
The ushers were Bernard and Joseph Maguire. Little Miss Jane Breighner
and Miss Mary Catherine Motika were flower girls. Miss Mary Ramer played the wedding march and Charles Stock sang.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride after which Mr. and Mrs.
McLaughlin left on a trip through Canada. They will reside in Philadelphia.

Mrs. McLaughlin was formerly employed in the office of The Times, leaving here for Philadelphia, where she has been employed for three years in the office of the Home Life Insurance Company. Mr. McLaughlin is employed in the accounting department of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

C. Huber Blocher Gets Franklin County Agency: C. Huber Blocher, of Carlisle street, assistant cashier of the First National Bank with which institution he has been connected for the last three and one half years, has been appointed agent
for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company for all of Franklin county,
and will move to Chambersburg with his family.

Laub-Taylor: Announcement is just made of the wedding of Miss Isabel C. Taylor, Biglerville, to Gordon C. Laub, of Fort Wayne, Indiana.
The ceremony was performed in the latter place, by the Rev. Arthur J.
Folsom, on Saturday, October 6.
They will make their home in Fort Wayne, where Mr. Laub is employed by the S. F. Bowser Company.

County Man Takes Bride on Wednesday: A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in Christ Lutheran church,
Shrewsbury, York county, when Miss Zana Irene Seitz, of Shrewsbury, became the bride of Roy H. Frey, of Fountain Dale. The ring ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor,
the Rev. George E. Bowers.

Mr. Frey is a prominent merchant of Fountain Dale. During the World War he spent several months in the War Risk Insurance Department,
Washington, D. C.

Entertains Teachers: A. B. Plank,
president of the Gettysburg school board, entertained the public school teachers of town, their wives and friends, at his summer home at Marsh Creek Heights.

"Our Mary" Jamison, Famous
White Squaw, Is Unveiled With Ceremonies: Mary Jamison, the
"white squaw," of Buchanan Valley, is home again after 165 years of wandering.

Several hundred persons gathered at the old Jesuit mission church in Buchanan Valley Saturday afternoon, to pay tribute to one whom they like to refer to as "Our Mary."
After the crowd stood with uncovered heads while the Star Spangled Banner was played, Father Whalen introduced Rush Gillan,
president judge of Franklin county courts, as chairman of the occasion.
Judge Gillan praised the efforts of Father Whalen in securing the erection of the statue, at the same time giving a brief account of the life of Mary Jamison.

Dr. George P. Donahue, of Harrisburg, State Librarian, was then introduced as the principal speaker of the afternoon.
When the speaker concluded
Father Whalen called upon Little Miss Catherine Miller, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Miller, of Orrtanna, R. D., to pull the string which released the American flag draped around the statue of the "white squaw."

Myrick, of Camp Humphries, Virginia, is spending a furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.
A. Myrick, Breckenridge street.

WILLY NILLY'S FEAR

WILLY NILLY wished he had not stopped. They were bound for home. Everything was in good order. They had had a lovely vacation. They had been delayed, but for good reasons. And now he only longed for Puddle Muddle,
and he knew it was what his Puddle Muddlers felt.

He spoke quickly to the couple.
"You do not know me. There is nothing I can do for you. I'm very sorry."

Willy Nilly was fearful and he spoke quickly. He could not possibly imagine what was wanted of him and he did not see anything about them that needed help. They looked tired and rather sad, but perhaps he had only thought that in the first place. It was best to keep going.

"You haven't a flat tire, or anything, have you?" asked Willy Nilly. "No, no, I can see you haven't. Well, then, I must be on my way. Don't apologize for having made a mistake. Good day, good day."

"Please, oh please, wait a moment," urged the man.
"You must, you must!" cried the woman.

Willy Nilly hesitated.
"We heard about you and how you turned in the fire alarm," the man said hurriedly. "We live on a farm just a little distance beyond. Some one came to see us this morning and told us all about your animals, how they can understand you, how wonderful they are."

Willy Nilly was immensely relieved.

"Go on," he said. The man and woman looked less tired, less sad.
"We'll tell you why we're stopping you. It's because of our little girl." This was becoming a mystery.

"Please, please do not leave without hearing us. We beg it of you. Oh, be kind, be kind. Stay for just a little while, it won't be for long. Do not refuse us."
Willy Nilly was as puzzled as he could be.

frontage of 403.5 feet on Penn street
and a depth of 170 feet, was bought from Clinton Forry, Edwin Forry and

THE GALLERY OF THE MIND

I AM always more at home in a strange room at night, whether in a home or hotel, where there are interesting pictures on the wall. They radiate friendliness. That hotel which invests in this sort of beauty adds to its income. People like to return to the friendly hotel.

Our minds are galleries. Each human being hangs upon the walls of his memory such pictures as express his tastes and loves. You can usually appraise the mental strain of a person as soon as you enter his home. The pictures upon one's walls, the books in one's library, or the taste in which a home has been furnished represent the man or woman.
And so, in talking to a person, you can soon detect the type of gallery that is in his mind. Some of these galleries are rich in rare beauty, gathered from far and near. There are seeing minds, and blind minds.
The latter show to the discriminating nothing but bare walls.

Look upon the gallery of some minds and you see there represented all phases of life—pictures of both victory and defeat, of strife, struggle and triumph. And then you will see peaceful scenes, like a little home in the valley, sheltered by great mountains. Perhaps the picture could be made to represent a heart at peace with itself, guarded by faith and hope,
and with God looking down smiling.

You can easily learn what sort of an artist one is by just walking through the gallery of his mind. The rich man furnishes the walls of his home with famous works of art, through the expenditure of large sums of money, but the poorest in material possessions can furnish his mind gallery with a finer display of art and beauty than he—using only the love in his heart as currency. Character is a fortune to such a human being.

That gallery in your mind is of vaster importance than the one which you place in your home, for it is of yourself—on display only to those who know art in the mind.

Don't Marry the Man

By Jeanne Bowman

The Characters

Kathleen Gregory: peppery red-haired member of the Gregory clan, goes West incognito to secure a right-of-way for The Golden Girl Mine.

Donald MacDonald: owner of the rival Stubborn Boy mine, hates
the Gregorys.

Bridget: Kathleen's companion.

Yesterday: Kathleen learns that a right-of-way could be secured
if there was priority of claim.

Chapter 14

'Come With Me'

OVER tea and "sly cake," which Kathleen thought resembled a Napoleon and raisin stuffing, Donald's housekeeper told how the garden and chickens augmented her husband's salary.

"A deed Donald has given to each of us, so should anything happen to him, or the mine, or new owners
come in, we own this home and could manage to live. Ah, the poor Gregorys," Mrs. Arthur concluded, and Kathleen knew she referred to the Gregory miners.

The rain which had threatened to fall all day, had made good its threat when they were leaving. Mrs.
Arthur looked at the sky and sighed deeply. "A green winter, Donald, a green winter."
"Nonsense," laughed Donald.
"This is only a green fall; we'll have snow."

"Ah, but Donald, Mrs. Campbell
saw a blossom on her apple tree,
three days back. I heard her calling to Annie. That's death before spring."

Donald laughed again. "I'm going to send Balm over to see you.
He'll take the woe out of that one;
tell you that superstition sprang
in a warm corner and with the rain the tree thinks it's spring. He'll
tell you that superstition sprang
from people growing careless in warm weather and not laying up for the cold."

"Aye, Balm has a reason for every superstition. I wish I could believe him."

Kathleen left Mrs. Arthur's home in a thoughtful mood. The mood remained through the long evening, through the delicious dinner on the menu which included all the favorite Scottish dishes from onion pudding to Rice Flour cake.

Donald MacDonald in his own home was yet another person—charming, considerate. He spoke of his family, especially of his widowed mother who summered with him,
then returned to Los Angeles for the winter; and of his cousin Norman who would be with him before long.

Kathleen listened with one ear;
with the other she seemed attuned
to some vibration in that room;
a peculiar throbbing which had an intoxicating quality. She was shocked to learn that the throbbing
was the quick beat of her heart.
The altitude, unquestionably; that and the air. The air in these mountains was so clear and light one felt buoyant.

She admitted enjoying the comfort of the lodge. Later, huddled before her own fire, she spoke of it.

"Imagine, that fire kept going without me. And that couch, Bridget, there were moments when I wanted to sink clear out of sight and spend the night on it."

Her bed was as uncompromising
as the future. It was a cold, barren fact. She spent most of the night tossing on it, her mind active
—building, rebuilding and with each board laid on board, calling Mac-Donald to come and see if he could have built as well.

Morning dawned with a steady rain dimming the landscape and the big room filled with damp, cold air. Had she not been so intent upon her plans, Kathleen might have complained. As it was she felt vague pity for Bridget who had been drawn into this life with her, and slipped in to build a fire for her.

"I'm going to crash the Gregory cots today," she confided. "I don't know how, but . . . watch me."

If intense desire were prayer, then Kathleen's prayers were answered.
She was idling along the trail when a man rushed up to the door of a cot. A moment later a woman throwing a coat over her head,
rushed out with him, caught sight of Kathleen and called.

"Oh, Miss Riley, go stay with the baby. My Johnny's got took!"

There was no more. She had fled in the wake of the man who was striding ahead and Kathleen,
after one glance around went into the cot.

For a moment she stood in the doorway, then hastily she closed
the door. The big room was dark.
The big room, she realized, encompassed most of the cottage. There was a tiny kitchen alcove, and in a moment she discovered a second alcove. Coughing came from there.
She hurried in.

A tiny girl lay there. When the paroxysm was over she smiled up at Kathleen. "You're the gold lady,"
she said hoarsely. "Like in fairy tales. Tell me a fairy tale."

The Gold Lady sat on a stool by the bed. Tell a fairy tale in these surroundings? The house was immaculately clean, but it was cluttered. The pots MacDonald had prophesied would be used during a rain were there. The ceiling was discolored by previous rains. It sagged in places, was crudely patched
in others.

An iron stove stood in one corner of the room, a tiny coal fire burning. Kathleen made a move to replenish it but the child stopped
her. "We only make big ones in winter," she admonished.

"Once upon a time—" began Kathleen and stopped.

"—there was a Golden Girl," prompted the child, and when Kathleen didn't go on—"and she rizz right up out of the mine an'
she had golden oranges in her hands
and she give us all we could eat.
And she was so bee-utiful we was all blinded. Us kids made up that one," she confided. "When my throat
don't hurt no more I'll tell you all of it."

Kathleen told a fairy tale then.
It was the truth but to the listener unbelievable. A story about a Golden Girl who lived in a Golden room and slept in a bed of Gold and drove in a Golden chariot.

And as she talked she saw the poverty about her. Under the child's guidance she rubbed the bony little chest with goose-grease and kerosene. When the coughing started again she fed her what she assumed was a precious liquid of crushed onion and lemon.

"Go easy on it," warned the child.
"Pop's got miner's cough. Don't you know what that is? Well you are green. It's the rock dust that gets in miners' lungs. Most all muckers have it; all the Gregorys anyhow."

Kathleen might have learned more but the mother reappeared,
her face set in white, stoical lines.

"Can't you tell me?" begged Kathleen.

"Tain't much," sighed the woman.

"The boys at school tried to make apparatus like the MacDonalds, damn them, have. They couldn't the bar broke when Johnny was up.
Only his leg is broke . . . but where can I get a doctor? They said they were takin' him to Carsted, that's twenty miles and those bones a'
rubbin'—"

"But there are doctors at both mines," protested Kathleen.

"You're Crazy."

"Just for the miners. There's a MacDonald doctor but I'd ne'er trust a lad of mine to his hand.
We have to pay for the Gregory one and I haven't the money. They'll wait for it in Carsted, or we'll go charity."

Kathleen felt an insane desire to rush to the Gregory mine, lift the doctor up by the nape of the neck and bring him to the cot; and in so doing, to walk over Kit-Smyth, preferably on his plucky face.

"An' Balm said 'pray be'lv'm' an'
I did."

Kathleen stood up, rigid with determination. "I'll get the Gregory doctor!"

She was off like a whirlwind.
For once the car started without too many objections. Reaching the mine she went directly to the emergency hospital to find the doctor studying a medical magazine.

"You'll come with me!" she exclaimed.

"What is it?" he asked.

"Don't you dare ask questions—"

"But, my dear young lady, how will I know what I'm going to need
if I don't know what kind—"

"Oh," Kathleen relaxed. "A schoolboy has broken his leg. They were taking him to Carsted."

"Right!" The man was on his feet, giving quick orders to two nurses who had appeared. "I'll bring him here. Ruth, you come with me." He turned to Kathleen.

"We'll take my car, I can convert it into a carrier. Come on."
Kathleen rode beside him and enroute talked of the little girl as well as her brother. "I didn't learn their names," she confessed. "I was so furious at you for refusing to take cases unless you were paid on the spot—"

"You are crazy." The car didn't slacken its pace but the force of the doctor's words brought Kathleen to a short stop. "I'd take every case in this town on both sides of the road for nothing . . . understand . . . nothing, if I could.

Do you think I like to camp there at the mouth of the mine playing solitaire; picking slivers out of miners' fingers; dressing an occasional break when I could be making myself useful? Good God, young woman, if it wasn't for old Balm drumming into my ears my responsibility to the miners underground;
the chance need of an experienced
man; the hope that some day
the Gregorys would get something besides gold into their veins and allow me to serve everyone; if it wasn't for Old Balm, I'd have been out of here three years ago. I don't think I can stand it much longer. Here we are, I'll be up to the house as soon as I finish with the boy."

"I'm paying you," Kathleen told him, and as he demurred. "I don't want the Gregorys firing a man like you. But don't tell anyone. Let Kit-Smyth think the family paid."

Teacher-Bride

Won't Quit; Gets

Paid for Idleness

Brownsville, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—A bride of a few months, who gets paid for teaching but doesn't teach,
carried into the seventh week
today her defiance of a school board demand for her resignation
because she is married.

Every day since school opened
September 6 Mrs. Herbert Edwards, Jr., 23, has reported at Brownsville junior high school and sat in a small room, reading magazines,
while a substitute teaches her old
class in social science.

She was married last summer to a gasoline station attendant and the board immediately asked her, as it had other married women teachers,
to resign.

Others complied, but Mrs. Edwards refused, asserting she could not be discharged for marriage under provisions of the Teachers' Tenure act. The board declined to assign her to a classroom, but she shows up every day and draws her $150 check at the end of the month.

She said she would like to stay at home and keep house and go to bridge parties, but could not afford
it.

"The teachers' tenure law gives the teacher the chance she has been looking for—the right to live like other women in public life, and still be married," she said.

Willard Griffon, president of the board, said the board had asked for instructions from the state Department of Public Education, but declared:

"We'll pay her until the tenure
law is amended so that we won't have to pay married teachers. I, for one, won't let her or any other teacher get married and still teach

—not as long as I am a board member."

Howard Johnson, secretary of the board asserted that if the board had "backed down" in Mrs. Edwards' case, it would have been asked to re-employ more than a dozen married teachers.

Fruit butters scorch easily because they are so thick. Placing the container on an asbestos mat helps prevent scorching. The butter should be cooked rapidly so it will keep its bright color. Use a long-handled wooden spoon, of the slotted type,
for stirring. Because boiling butter bubbles a great deal, its safer to wrap your stirring arm in a dish
cloth to avoid burns.

U. S. PLANNING NEW ATTACK ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP)—Informed persons in the administration disclosed today that a broad new attack on the problem of unemployment is in the making.

This may result, they said, in presentation to congress early next year of a correlated program for restoring work opportunities by improving conditions in the nation's basic durable goods industries. Details have not been made known.

At the same time it was learned that a major objective of the monopoly investigation committee will be to uncover business practices and faults in the nation's economic structure which, in the words of one member, "cause conditions in which people can't get jobs."

The committee's work probably will be concerned with a long range solution to the problem, but some administration officials are more interested in starting on a program during the winter.

These officials say a sound prosperity must be based on restoring prosperous conditions to the heavy goods industry. This can be brought about, they argue, by setting the railroads on their feet so that they again can become big customers, by further stimulating building construction, by encouraging greater automobile production, and in similar ways.

It is their contention that the pickup in 1937 resulted almost entirely from improvements in so-called consumer goods markets, and that it collapsed because those improvements were not supported by advances in the durable goods industries.

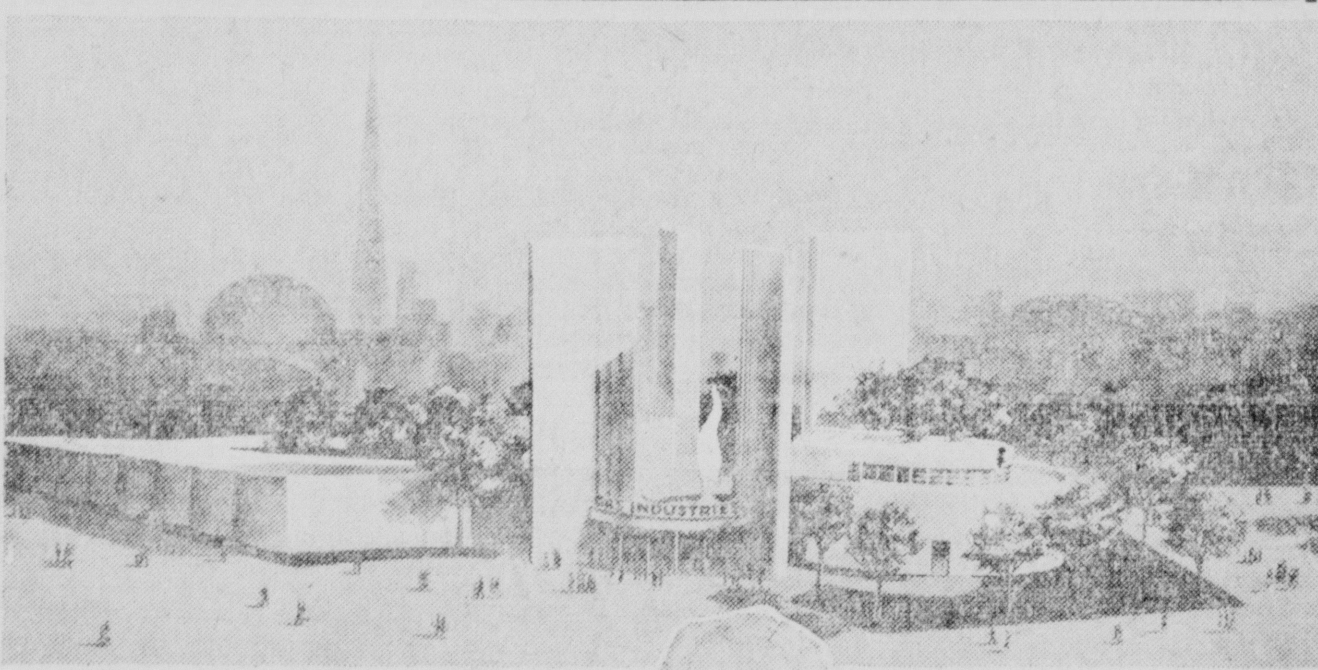

Establishment of a bureau of industrial economics to make a continuous survey of business conditions won approval of Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) of the committee investigating monopoly.

O'Mahoney said the agency, first suggested by President Roosevelt in his monopoly message to the last congress, might well carry on the work started by the present inquiry.

The committee disclosed Thursday that it had issued 89 subpoenas for investigations into transfer of Chesapeake and Ohio railroad proxies and into patent ownership in the glass industry.

O'Mahoney said the C. and O. case illustrated some of the problems of stock proxies and their general effect on corporation structures. Centralization of patents in the glass industry is being investi-

Famous Epicure to Greet Millions At World's Fair "Court of Flame"

George Rector, America's most colorful restaurateur and world famous authority on good food, and the gas industry's spectacular "Court of Flame" exhibit at which he will serve as host at the New York World's Fair in 1939 are shown here. Mr. Rector has been acclaimed by three generations of lovers of the fine art of eating for his savory creations and for the gay and unique manner in which he prepares them.

At right, Mr. Rector shows his famous salad. The modern setting of the gas industry's exhibit at the World's Fair (top) is in extreme contrast to the "Victorian grandeur" of Rector's which was a New York landmark during the "Gay Nineties." Mr. Rector will vividly demonstrate how to cook the most delicious and tempting dishes of the best chefs and will divulge the secret recipes that gave his restaurant international fame. In his jovial manner, he will comment on the many famous people who were and are his friends because they "loved good eating."

The "Court of Flame" has been created for and made possible by Gas Exhibits, Inc., a non-profit group conducting the gas industry's participation in the Fair. Their aim is to portray to those from all parts of the world who will visit the exposition the modernity and versatility of gas as a fuel and its place in the "world of tomorrow."

At this exhibit, four towering pylons wreathed in flame will surround a ten-foot cube out of which will gush skyward a flaming gas torch of ever changing color. Bordering the Court on one side will be an exhibition hall where gas appliances of every description will be shown in actual home-settings. On the other side will be the auditorium where Mr. Rector will give his lectures and demonstrations. In a tree-shaded patio will stand an All-Gas Home typifying the "home of tomorrow."

gated, he said, because of its alleged effect on competition.

Three Veterans of Civil War Succumb

William Harrison Paul, one of Philadelphia's few surviving Civil War "boys in blue," died Thursday at his home in Germantown. He had celebrated his 98th birthday anniversary on Tuesday.

Paul, a member of the 3d Penn-sylvia Volunteer Infantry through the Civil war, was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg. At the close of the war he entered the butcher business in Germantown, retiring at the turn of the century.

Joseph Bauer, 93, one-time New York state commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, died in a hospital in Rochester on Thursday.

Bauer was a former member of the state assembly and was instrumental in forming a labor council in Rochester which led to labor organization under the American Federation of Labor. He served with the Eighth New York cavalry and the fifth New York independent battery during the Civil war.

Green Re-Named Head Of A. F. of L. 15th Time

Houston, Tex., Oct. 14 (AP)—American federation of labor unions, armed for war but apparently anxious for peace in labor's internal strife, today turned over to their executive council for action the policy mandates of the 58th

annual convention which adjourned Thursday night.

Jammed into the program in an 11-day meeting that was dull and stormy by turns were a dozen controversial issues that called for action on the political and industrial fronts. The convention voted to meet in San Francisco in 1939.

After the tumult and debating over dualism and the new deal in the closing days of the session, the convention closed on a "high note of peace." It was sounded by William Green in a speech accepting for the fifteenth time the presidency of the A. F. of L.

TWO INQUIRIES
BEING HELD ON HORSE RACE DATA

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP).—Two investigations directed at the dissemination of horse race betting information on separate fronts today, with the possibility that the federal government also might step into the picture.

While a special legislative committee proceeded with hearings in Philadelphia, the Public Utility Commission at Harrisburg started an investigation of three major telephone companies in connection with what the commission termed their alleged distribution of "race track information for gambling purposes."

The commission assigned Commissioner Richard J. Beamish to inquire into the leased wire facilities of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Telephone corporation and the Keystone Telephone company.

Beamish immediately notified the three concerns to appear at a hearing in Harrisburg, October 20.

At the same time he requested cooperation of the federal communications commission in view of the fact that the investigation would "involve long lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and other services beyond the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania."

While none of the telephone company executives were immediately available for comment, it was recalled that William Lamb, general counsel for the Bell concern, testified before the legislative committee in Philadelphia recently that the company may not, under the law, discriminate against applicants for services, and therefore cannot refuse its facilities to race information bureaus.

"We can't refuse service because we know a man has been gambling," he testified. "We don't like the situation any more than you (the committee) do, and will welcome anything to clarify it."

OLD ADAGE FAILS
Winnipeg — The adage "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" didn't turn true to form for Albert Armistead and Walter Scofield. Armistead brought into a flight of ducks and brooded one down. Scofield placed the duck carefully in the pocket of his hunting coat. A short time later Scofield felt a rustling as the mallard, only stunned by Armistead's shot, took off from his pocket. The hunters were too exasperated to think of firing a second time.

PREMATURE CELEBRATION
Baltimore — Magistrate Donald F. Roman doesn't believe it's bad luck to postpone a wedding. Charles Eberwein was hailed before him charged with reckless driving and driving while intoxicated. "I was going to be married Sunday," Eberwein explained. "Celebrating early?" asked the magistrate. Eberwein nodded. "Thirty days in jail," said the magistrate.

WRONG EXAMPLE
Coffax, Wash. — There's nothing so effective as a good example in teaching football, opined Coach Walter Henry. He lined up his high school gridsters to show them how to evade tacklers. The first boy to charge the coach brought him down—with a broken leg.

GASTRONOMIC FEA(S)T
Chicago — The crowd laughed when Louis Stein started eating. They didn't know he was that hungry. When Stein finished his 22nd hamburger sandwich and two quarts of ice cream, he was the recipient of cheers from onlookers and $40 from his friend, Sam Roth. Stein did it in 25 minutes. Roth had bet him he couldn't do it in two hours.

REJECTION SUSTAINED
Des Moines, Ia. — Erville Threlkeld, of Ottumwa, rejected, perforce, a Drake university fraternity's proposal of becoming a brother. The rushing chairman of the fraternity had written a letter pointing out the advantages of becoming a brother, living in a fraternity house, etc. Erville sent her regrets and the information that she's eligible only for bids from sororities.

UNUSUAL "SLEEP"
Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP).—Playmates thought six-year-old Tommy Reid was taking a nap while they romped nearby. But when he failed to awaken after an hour, they called his mother. At a hospital, X-ray pictures disclosed "sleep" was due to a fractured skull, received in an unnoticed fall.

SUPERSTITIOUS
Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP).—Football Coach Johnny Butler may or may not be superstitious, but he insists on furnishing the coin for the tossup at each game. Then he throws it away.

CREATOR OF "POPEYE" DIES IN CALIFORNIA
Santa Monica, Calif., Oct. 14 (AP).—E. C. Segar, the house painter who became a cartoonist by taking a $20 mail order course, left in death today a million dollar legacy of comic characters to amuse the world.

The creator of "Thimble Theater," a quaint comic strip printed daily by more than 500 newspapers, and "Popeye the Sailor," a movie cartoon with fans around the globe, died at his home here Thursday night after a long illness. He was 44.

King Features announced today in New York that "Thimble Theater" would be continued as a daily strip, just as "The Gumps" lived on after the death of Sidney Smith, the cartoon family's creator, in 1935.

Ickes Accepts Bid
To Talk in State;
Farley to Appear

Harrisburg, Oct. 14 (AP). — The national democratic chairman and two persons close to President Roosevelt were expected today to step into the Pennsylvania political campaign by making speeches in the state before the election November 8.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, prominent aid to Mr. Roosevelt, announced in Washington Thursday that he had conditionally accepted an invitation from Judge Arthur H. James, republican candidate for governor, to speak in Pennsylvania before election day.

Earlier this week, the democratic congressional campaign committee headquarters at Washington said Charles West, former under secretary of the interior and confident of the President, would appear at Norristown Saturday and at Pittsburgh next week.

Postmaster General James A. Farley is scheduled to address Philadelphia democrats at their $100-a-plate dinner next Thursday.

President Roosevelt has said he personally would not come into the state although he obtained first hand information on the campaign when democratic candidates and Senator Guflay (D-Pa.) visited him recently at his Hyde Park estate.

51 Are Affected by Typhoid in Uniontown

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP). — The second victim of an outbreak of typhoid fever that has affected 51 persons in this western Pennsylvania industrial area died today as the state Department of Health joined county authorities in attempting to uncover the source of the disease.

Mrs. Harry Spaw, 27-year-old North Union township school teacher, died early today in Uniontown hospital where 13 other victims are confined, a number of them in a serious condition. Fourteen-year-old Lloyd Weightman, Jr., of Uniontown, died earlier in the week.

Dr. P. A. Keeney of the state Health department, who began an investigation Thursday, said today that "most of the cases point to a supper at a West Leisenring church."

"But," he added, "I am not yet ready to say positively that the source of infection came from the supper."

Suspecting that a "carrier"—one who is capable of infecting others with the disease, but never himself becomes ill—may have been responsible, tests have been ordered among those who had served and prepared the food. Tests of milk and water served at the supper proved negative.

TWO HUNGARIAN
MINISTERS RESIGN

Bucharest, Rumania, Oct. 14 (AP). — General Alexander Argescu, minister of war, and General M. Glaz, under-secretary for war, resigned today.

The reason was said to be what they called the inadequacy of Rumanian re-armament measures, which the cabinet council had criticized frequently.

King Carol was reported to have taken steps to speed up the armament program.

BISHOP RE-SIGNED

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP). — The evangelical church's 32nd quadrennial convention re-assigned four bishops to the areas they directed the last four years, including John W. Stamm, eastern area, with headquarters at Harrisburg.

400,000 WOMEN AND CHILDREN TO FLEE CANTON

Hongkong, Oct. 14 (AP)—Preparations were hurried today to send 400,000 women and children and the municipal and provincial governments into the interior from Canton as a new Japanese force of 40,000 moved closer to that south China metropolis.

The invading army captured Tamshui, 12 miles from Bias bay where it landed Wednesday, and was reported striking due west in a 20-mile drive to cut the important Canton-Kowloon railway at a point about 20 miles from the borders of this British crown colony.

Incensed bombing and shelling left Tamshui in ruins. The invaders drove relentlessly toward the important garrison city of Waichow, 82 miles east of Canton and 35 miles north of Hongkong.

Chinese resistance improved as the Japanese columns moved steadily inland, but the invaders' airplanes and artillery were being used with crushing force.

With the destruction of a long wooden bridge about 15 miles north of Hongkong, Canton was cut off completely except for the highway to Waichow and the water route to Macao, Portuguese colony 70 miles south of Canton.

Chinese military supplies from Hongkong were blocked, and it was learned a caravan of 160 trucks, by which an effort was made to send materials to Canton, was forced to return here after finding the bridge destroyed.

Events were moving rapidly in Kwangtung province, of which Canton is the capital. Provincial and municipal archives, it was learned, were being sent to Yungyuen, in northern Kwangtung. Government officials were expected to leave shortly by special train.

Heavy Chinese re-inforcements were being rushed to Cheungmutau on the Canton-Kowloon railway, and to Waichow, where a bitter battle was expected.

Kwangtung authorities were reported to have asked the consular body of the Shamen foreign settlement of Canton to convey to the Japanese a request that Lingnan university and the French Catholic cathedral in Canton be declared safety zones for non-combatants.

More than 200 foreigners remained in Shamen, including 80 Americans. The United States gunboat Mindanao, with one French and five British war vessels, were bottled up in waters near Canton.

More than 100 Japanese planes, in squadrons, bombed towns and villages in the pathway of the advancing troops. Coastal cities including Swatow, where 20 planes dropped scores of bombs in the business district and did considerable damage, were among the planes' objectives. Casualties were reported heavy.

More than 200 were reported killed or wounded when bombs struck a group of fishing boats on the Tsing river in Kukong.

Dispatches from Canton this evening said Waichow was in flames after day-long bombings by Japanese planes. The number killed and wounded was estimated at more than 1,000.

CZECHS FAVOR LOYAL ATTITUDE TOWARD HITLER

Munich, Oct. 14 (AP)—An official German announcement today said that Frantisek Chvalkovsky, foreign minister to Czechoslovakia, had given Reichsfuehrer Hitler assurances that Czechoslovakia in future will adopt "a loyal attitude" toward Germany.

The announcement came some two hours after Hitler had received the Czechoslovak envoy in the fuhrerhaus, scene of the historic Munich conference which two weeks ago set the seal on Czechoslovakia's dismemberment at Hitler's behest.

The official account of the meeting said the fuhrer had expressed profound regret that the question of Czechoslovakia's Hungarian minority had not yet been solved and had told Chvalkovsky that he hoped an amicable solution of this problem soon would be found.

Informed circles said Hitler, in his 90-minute conversation with the Prague envoy, "took occasion to discuss all questions involving both states."

The Komarom conference, in which Hungary sought from a Slovak delegation representing Prague satisfaction of her demands for Hungarian-populated areas of Slovakia, broke up Thursday without agreement and Hungary announced she would take her case to the four powers of the Munich accord.

A leader of the Slovak delegation said Hungary had demanded 4,349 square miles with a population of 1,100,000; Czechoslovakia had offered to cede 2,152 square miles with 378,000 population.

Chvalkovsky, a former minister to Berlin, Rome and Tokyo who was named foreign minister of the revamped Prague government last week, arrived in Germany Thursday to learn Hitler's will concerning the future of his diminished country.

Nazi circles believed Hitler demanded among other things abandonment of Czechoslovakia's alliances with Soviet Russia and France.

There was no ceremonious reception for Chvalkovsky. No flags were flown. There was no guard of honor as on previous occasions when foreign statesmen were received. Nothing in the city indicated that the envoy of a friendly neighbor country was being entertained.

Hitler previously had supported Hungary's territorial demands on Czechoslovakia and "declined at the Munich conference of September 29 to guarantee the frontiers of the republic until she had settled her minority disputes with both Poland and Hungary.

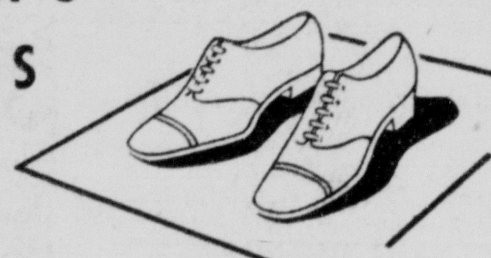

COMPLIMENT NOT WANTED

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 14 (AP)—A protest was received when the city council proposed to name a new athletic park "Carter Glass field." One citizen wrote The Daily Advance, owned by Senator Carter Glass, a vigorous opponent of new deal spending, that it would be a left-handed compliment to name a W.P.A. project for the senator. Decision was deferred.
